University Physician Elizabeth Downing recommends that anyone who is ill with flu should isolate themselves until at least 24 hours after the fever has subsided (without needing fever reducing medication). Ill students should self-isolate. Fortunately, in the great majority of cases, this illness is relatively mild and does NOT require a medical visit.

See
for more information.

If you get ill:
Do not come to class.
Send me and your TA an email with I HAVE FLU in the subject line.
Give your full name and perm.
You do not need a note from a medical worker.

Do the homework on webwork and read relevant sections in the book.

When you are better tell your TA what work you missed.
You will receive a credit for work missed based on work you do during the quarter.
This applies even if you miss a midterm.

Good luck.
Stay well.
